Forum Considers Solutions to Racism as It Exists in Princeton

"You see me standing here talking, but if I touch you — you might feel different. . . ."

Racism in Princeton. The speaker was the Rev. Edward Smith whose First Baptist Church joined with Lutheran Church of the Messiah in a recent Sunday afternoon symposium on race.

Last Saturday, a week after the church gathering, the YWCA held a morning of workshops on race. "I feel so bitter about it," said one black woman participant, "after all these years we still have to have a forum on racism in Princeton!"

Both church and "Y" sessions divided participants into workshops on Education, Housing, and in the case of the "Y", Employment and Justice, as well.

The Y's Housing Seminar heard Princeton realtors Karl Light and Lawrence Norris Kerr say flatly that Princeton has made "virtually no progress except on the talk level" in wiping out discrimination.

"In a town like this," explained William Fitch, executive director of the Civil Rights Commission, "discrimination is subtle — it's nothing we can take to the state in a complaint."

A black home-buyer may be treated rudely, or told that the seller is "out of town" and the house can't be shown. An agent may encourage him to make a low offer which will be rejected.

Princeton Borough and Township have new ordinances shoring up state housing laws, but so far, not one person has made a complaint under the ordinances, according to Civil Rights Commission chairman Gordon Mack.

Princeton's black renter, the Y panel learned, is rarely given a lease and can be evicted without reason on 30 days' notice.

"This means," said chairman Mrs. Harold Kuhn, "that you keep your mouth shut about the rats and the heating system because if you protest to the Board of Health, you'll either be evicted or have your rent raised."

She said one Princeton landlord makes sure his houses on Olden Street and on Wiggins have white tenants and are kept in good repair, but houses he owns on Shirley Court and Witherspoon, she stated, "are crumbling away."

Rentals in the John Street-Witherspoon area might sound low at $60, but could represent 30% of a tenant's income, Mrs. Kuhn estimated.

Both Mr. Light and Mrs. Kerr declared that zoning ordinances are the basis of today's discrimination. "These ordinances are passed to maintain the status quo," Mr. Light said.

At the Baptist-Lutheran meeting, Township Mayor James A. Floyd also turned a cold eye on zoning. "Housing is more than just providing shelter," he observed. "We must establish what our philosophy of community is going to be: including people or excluding them?"

"We keep the people of the John-Witherspoon area locked up in their little bag, and at the same time ask them to serve us by working in Princeton Hospital."

Mayor Floyd said the Township

Taxes? Up, Where Else? Budgets Introduced

The Township taxpayer received as he reached for his pocketbook this week. Committee introduced a 1971 budget of $2,303,178, up 6.5 percent over last year.

But the amount to be raised by taxes is even more breathtaking: it's $1,039,015 — $136,345 more than a year ago, for an increase of 17.7 percent. Public hearing on the budget will be Monday, March 15, at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

Meanwhile in the Borough, things were somewhat more tranquil. Council introduced Tuesday night a budget of $2,267,331. The amount to be raised by taxes is $873,477, or $80,000 more than a year ago. Public hearing March 9.

The Township's tax situation — a reflection of the national economy — 1970 rateables increased only 2.7 percent, compared to the 1969 increase of 5.4 percent.

There wasn't a single big new rateable in the Township last year. Nothing comparable to, say, the nursing home on Mr. Lucas, the ORC addition, or some big University building. And fewer homes were built.

Some Rateables Lost. Besides $1,400,000 (or $728,500 at the 50 percent assessment) in tax-exempt property went off the tax rolls altogether, for a total dollar loss of more than $51,000, or about five tax points.

These new tax-exempt properties include the Princeton Inn dormitory, the new Red Cross building (loss of a $42,800 house); various houses bought by Princeton Hospital for a total of about $98,000 in property lost; purchases by the Church of Christ and the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church of houses to be used as "manses," which aren't taxable. The former Princeton Inn alone was taxed, full value, at $1,165,600.

Wanted: Rateables. Administrator Joseph R. Nini and Committeemen warn that if present economic conditions continue, and no new non-residential nor commercial rateables are forthcoming, the Township's tax rate can do nothing but spiral upward.

For the householder himself, the percentage increase in his taxes is 11.6 percent. The owner of a $40,000 home will pay $164 more per year, the owner of a $60,000 house, $246 more; the owner of one of the Townships' few $30,000 homes, $123 more.

Also, the Township now pays more in projects shared with the Borough. Things like the library, recreation, fire protection, sewers and incinerators are based on rateables or usage. Where projects are based on rateables the Township share has increased from 62 to 64 percent, and slightly more for activities based on useage.

For example, the Township's share of the public library has gone up $23,498 from $173,232 to $196,730.

Help for Youth Center. However, the Borough has just spent something in the neighborhood of $20,000 for improvements to the Princeton Youth Center building, which the Borough owns. In this new budget, the Township has increased its Youth Center support to $5,000 — up from the $1,000 contributed last year.

Township contribution to the Child Guidance "291 Witherspoon" drug project will again be $10,000. The agency had asked each municipality for $20,000. The Township has also set aside $1,235 for the Hot Line and the work of the proposed Princeton Drug Committee (see Topics of the Town, page 3.)

When the figures are all in the Township will probably contribute $50,000 toward purchase of the new fire truck.

Increase in salaries and wages is $70,034, and the municipality, like the Borough, plans a general salary increase of 6.5 percent. Police salaries are still under negotiation.

Included in the salary figure is one additional police officer, summer jobs for young people and, symbolically - an additional full time clerk in the tax office.

Incidentally, the Township will enter the bond market by May 1 with $750,000 or $800,000 worth of bonds.

The Borough's tax rate will be $7.82 per $100 of assessed valuation, approximately 66c higher than last year's $7.16. Of this increase, the school rate is about 22c more; the county about 27c and the local rate about 18c. All figures are tentative until the county's final accounting.

For the Borough taxpayer who owns a $40,000 house, the new tax bill will be $132 more a year.

The amount the Borough has to raise by taxes is $873,477, or $80,000 more than a year ago but revenues are up, too. Apart from property taxes, the Borough counts $1,393,854 in revenues, compared to $1,284,620 last year.

Parking meter receipts, state aid, gross receipts tax, franchise taxes and the like are "revenues." The Borough is also using $187,000 from its surplus fund (last year, $160,000 was used from surplus.)

"We put back about $162,000 last year," reports Administrator Robert F. Mooney. "We had $77,000 excess in operations alone."

The Borough also took in $36,000 more in court fines than expected, and raked in more pennies and dimes in parking meters than anticipated.

Salary Increases About 6.5%. Included in the budget package is $924,000 for salaries and wages — $90,000 more than last expects working drawings "within a month," for the proposed low- and middle-income Princeton Community Housing project.

Lutheran Church of the Messiah did not join PCH when other churches and institutions were forming the non-profit corporation, and it was proposed at the Sunday workshop that the church take another look at its decision. It was also suggested by a Messiah member that the congregation buy land across the Cedar Lane church and construct housing of its own.

Mayor Floyd told the church group that actually, housing discrimination in Princeton was not "rampant." He said more housing" was more important than "open housing."

He did declare, however, that "It's time to walk into real estate offices and ask the agent what his policy is. Where is the placard the state require him to hang? Behind a filing cabinet?"

He said he knew of an agency employee who polled a neighborhood before showing a house to a black professional couple. The employee was discharged, "but simply went to another agency and got a job," he said.

Police Discrimination. Justice is it equal for blacks and whites? Workshops talked this over at the Y forum on Saturday.

One black participant suggested that police discriminate against blacks because "they figure blacks won't assert their legal rights. And the police get away with it because nobody at the top says 'you can't.'"

Panel chairman Gordon Mack, who is chairman of the Princeton Civil Rights Commission, told the workshop not to forget that "police are in the middle: the officer's role is changing, and maybe he is confused. But not enough black people are protesting."

A black woman described occasions in Princeton when a squad car would stop a white girl walking with a black high school student, and tell the girl to leave him and go home to her parents.

Condemned in Advance. Mrs. Rowan Boone, active for many years in human rights areas, said she was disturbed by an unconscious white attitude:

"Whites look at a young black man and automatically think he's about to steal or commit a crime. The kid knows this. How can we change this white attitude?"

Stanley Van Ness, black lawyer who is a public defender for the state, smiled wryly and said, "If you look at crime statistics, maybe there is a basis for this white fear. What you should ask is WHY are you in greater danger of having your purse snatched by a black?"

One black woman described how she and her son had been stopped by state police on two occasions. Once they searched her car trunk, the other time they said they'd made a mistake and let her go.

She admitted that she had not complained about either incident, although the police had acted without the necessary warrants.

Leonard Newton, in one of the two "Justice" seminars, suggested a Civil Rights Commission newsletter in which such incidents could be described by their victims.

On the Employment Scene. Black Princetonians may find low pay more of a problem than getting a job, the Y forum learned, with many black men holding two or three jobs just to make ends meet.

Robert W. Cawley, who is mayor of the Borough, but who spoke in his capacity as assistant director for research administration at Western Electric, proposed a new organization "to match people with jobs."

Mr. Cawley said small firms have particular difficulty tracking down minority employees. Big firms, like WE, must turn to a Trenton pool, he added.

Princeton's Civil Rights Commission is also interested in forming such a committee, Mr. Cawley told the group.

On Education. Dean Joseph Moore of Princeton University, also a Borough Councilman and president of the Youth Center, told the Baptist-Lutheran gathering,

"The entire Princeton picture is depressing. A lot more work has to be done, especially with black achievement in schools. The rate of success after a black student leaves Princeton High, is very low."

Mr. Moore also asked "Where can a black kid go in New Jersey when he gets out of the school system?"

A white member of that panel commented, "A lot of implicit racism gets through to our kids because we and they have so little contact with the black community."

A young white member of the Baptist-Lutheran meeting looked around at the mostly lily white gathering of some 70 persons and asked, "Why are there so few blacks here?" (Of approximately half a dozen, two were public officials and two were ministers).

Another white said bleakly that black Princetonians probably regarded the session as just more white talk without action.

Teen members of this group said they wanted to learn more about black churches and planned to attend First Baptist. (The Rev. Mr. Smith smilingly proposed that Lutheran of the Messiah hire a black minister).

In a more serious vein, he accused his white listeners of knowing little about black churches. "You look down on black churches intellectually," he charged, "while the world around you is going to hell. Go to black churches! Get out in the streets and work!"

Saturday's Y session on Education ended with a plea from its chairman, Dr. Cecelia Drewry.

"I feel so strongly that we must move ahead to implement the 'discoveries' we have made here!" "I am very anxious that some kind of concrete action will be proposed. The time is now!"

Youth Concerns Drug Committee Reports

Creation of a core group of five adults and five young people who would act as a central switchboard plugged into Princeton's drug problem is the chief recommendation of the Youth Concerns Committee's Drug Committee. Parent sponsor is the Council of Community Services.

The drug group's 18-page report, a year in the making, was presented Tuesday night to Borough Council and is scheduled for delivery in time for Township Committee's meeting next Tuesday. The Drug Committee wants municipal government endorsement for its proposals.

The proposed "Princeton Drug Committee" would clear out channels of communication, help to coordinate drug projects already in existence and gather information for the entire community.

Highlights from the report

● Borough and Township police should establish a program to improve police community relations because "misunderstandings do exist."

● A Youth Education Task Force of high school and University students should spend one month in the junior high grades, then start a series of meetings with young students to discuss needs of junior high youngsters.

● Professionals and agencies should cooperate more, and get rid of the "proprietory feeling" they have for their own special program.

● Hospital staff, police and social service agencies should meet regularly to talk about drug problems and Princeton Hospital should be asked "to clarify its responsibility concerning the drug user."

A Year Ago. Last February, Princeton's two governing bodies at Youth Concerns' request, assigned Youth Concerns to the examination of Princeton's drug problem. Under the original chairman Carl A. Fields, YC's drug committee prepared a report which was submitted last fall.

It was felt that more work was needed. The committee was reorganized into its present form and work was begun leading to the present recommendations.

If governing bodies give the nod, the Council of Community Services will set up its "Princeton Drug Committee." The five adults will be professionals who have working relationships with youth; the other five will be Princeton University and high-school-age students.

Youth Concerns' drug group thinks this new Drug Committee can only be successful if citizens, local government and above all, community agencies, give it support.

"Princeton's youth and adult involvement in drug use is too complex in terms of causes and consequences to be subjected to agency or group-proprietory feelings," the report declares.

Improved Communications. Gathering information and making it available to people who need it will be a top assignment for the new group.

"Much information is now available to professional persons and agencies, and not enough to young people and parents who don't know where to go when they want help."

The PDC will keep an up-to-date list of therapeutic facilities as a help to people in need, and a way of avoiding duplication. The group will also set up a system so that agencies can confer with each other periodically.

The report believes University and high school students should have a chance to talk with each other more, and the PDC will try for greater cooperation with University students, administration and faculty.

It will be the job of PDC to "encourage" regular meetings of Princeton Hospital staff, police and agencies, and also meetings at the hospital for its own profesional staff. Also, the group will arrange a meeting of doctors, police and the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad to set up emergency procedures for drug abuse cases.

YES to Be Involved. The new group will work with the Youth Employment Service to find jobs for young people, helping them "to separate themselves from the surroundings in which drug abuse is difficult to resist and promoting a sense of responsibility."

The junior-high-age pilot program would work this way: a Youth Education Task Force would form two steering groups of University students and high school students, one group for the Middle School and one for a private school.

These two groups would spend one month "immersed in the junior high environment." Gradually, they would add junior high students to the original steering group. Then the expanded group would begin to meet with preteens to talk about their needs. They might make field trips to rehabilitation centers like Odyssey House or to institutions doing drug research, or they might set up a student-teacher drug education workshop.

The basic idea, is that programs aren't effective if they don't include young people themselves in making decisions. The report also proposes Family and Community Life Discussion Groups to meet in several locations scattered around the community.

Chairman of the Drug Committee is Mrs. Barbara Fields (no relation to Carl A. Fields). Student members are the Misses Susie Anderson, Barby El

MOVE ON, PLEASE

All Day Meters Shifted. The Borough took the first experimental step Tuesday night toward prying its all day parkers out of the central business district and moving them to the outskirts, so to speak.

Council changed 39 all day meters in the Tulane West parking yard to two hour meters. In return 39 meters on William Street that are now two hour will become all day.

This change will become effective after state approval probably four or five weeks according to Administrator Robert F. Mooney.

Lincoln and Washington have never been closer together than in this era of holidays rearranged for the leasurely way of life. What will the Weather Man do about it?

Councilman [illegible] urged Council to think of [illegible] as a stop gap only. All day parking in residential areas is absolutely [illegible] to be avoided. He would like a parking garage, and parking yards on the perimeter of Princeton.

More Traffic. Moving on from the street Council took action to ban parking on the south side of Nassau between Witherspoon and Harrison. The state must approve.

And at the request of a study by the Borough Traffic Safety Committee, Council introduced an ordinance increasing speed on the Borough segment of Harrison from 25 to 30 mph with a 30 mph section where the Lloyd Terrace housing for the elderly is located. The state has asked the Township and West Windsor for similar action.

Councilman Martin Lombardo, citing the Harrison Street playgrounds, voted no and Councilman John Strange abstained.

Mr Strange said a Borough resident has requested reduction of the Edwards Place speed limit. The street is a dead end opening into University Place across from the University Store. Cars emerge into Edwards from the store's parking lot.

Youths who park at night on Nassau near Moore play loud car radios, blare loud car horns and gun loud car engines, were the subject of a complaint from Craig Smith who lives in an apartment at 210 Nassau, near Moore.

Describing himself as "under 30," Mr Smith characterized the visitors as "nice polite kids, never insulting," but noisy. He presented the names of seven neighbors who agree with him.

Police Aware of Problem. "We're forever dispersing this group and we've made a few arrests," reported Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan who said police have license numbers indicating the drivers come from out of town. He suggested parking restrictions.

"The streets are free," replied Mr. Lombardo, adding that as a teen-ager, he had sat with friends on the low wall along Nassau next to Firestone library and had been told by police to "move along."

He said he planned to talk with the youths. "Don't push them off the streets," he urged. "It's better to get them to respect the rights of others."

Mayor Cawley said the police would do some investigating, too.

Borough police received high praise from a resident, anonymous by preference, who said an early-morning telephone call from someone identifying himself as a "Philadelphia Weatherman" had told him his house would blow up in 25 minutes from a hidden bomb.

"Immediate and massive" police response resulted from the home-owners' call to police. A thorough bomb search revealed nothing, and the writer said he thought the call came from a crank.

Mr. Strange will propose that the Sewer Operating Committee be expanded from three to six members — two each from Borough, Township and University. He will also propose regular public meetings by the SOC (see comments by Dean Chace, Mr. Strange's counterpart on Township Committee, in "Topics of the Town.")

The drug report of the Youth Concern Committee of the Council of Community Services was presented by A. C. Reeves Hicks, of Youth Concern; Mrs. Nancy Gryzbek, director of the Council, and Tom Navin, student member of the drug study group. (See story, "Topics of the Town").

FAMILIES EVACUATED During Gas Line Repair. Some 30 families living in the vicitinty of Moore and Spruce streets were evacuated from their homes early Sunday morning while Public Service repaired a leaking eight-inch gas main.

Four days after eight persons were killed in nearby Lambertville by leaking gas that exploded, Borough police reacted swiftly when Donald J. Leard Jr., 36 Moore Street, called at 5:17 a.m. to report hearing hissing noises coming from the street.

Sgt. Robert Anderson and his squad investigated and detected a strong smell of gas at Nassau and Moore. Pfc. Charles Harris notified Public Service and ordered all fire companies to stand by.

After tracing the source of the leak as best they could to Moore and Spruce, Sgt. Anderson and Patrolmen Thomas Michaud, David Alston and David Holliday began awakening the residents. About 80, including many elderly persons, were escorted to safety. One elderly man who was ill was taken to Princeton Hospital.

Twenty-seven were taken to the firehouse on Chestnut Street or to Red Cross headquarters on Harrison Street, emergency shelters set up by the Red Cross. Residents on Moore between Wiggins and Nassau, on Spruce between Moore and Chestnut, and on Park Place between Moore and Madison were affected.

Public Service was able to repair the leak — an eight-inch cast iron main had broken at Moore and Spruce — by 8 a.m. and gas was turned on again by 9:35. A spokesman for Public Service described the break as a "clean one". He said that a rapid change in temperature might have caused the ground around the pipe to thaw suddenly and snap it. He added that the pipe had been checked as recently as Friday.

The only casualty was the 7 a.m. mass at St. Paul's Church, which was cancelled because of the leak.

7,000 Hear Huey Newton

With his Black Panthers playing the role of peace makers and security guards Huey Newton spun out his philosophy Tuesday night in jam-packed Jadwin Gymnasium before a racially-mixed audience of 7,000.

Mr. Newton attacked the "small clique of reactionaries who rule America at the expense of the working classes and the unemployed," urging establishment of a nation of black people. He spoke under sponsorship of the New University Conference, a radical undergraduate organization formed last fall, and reportedly took home a $3,500 speaker's fee to his party's treasury.

Despite anticipation of posible violence, none occurred. Black Panther marshals searched everyone who came to hear the rally, a procedure which required so much time that Mr. Newton's address began at 9:15, 75 minutes behind schedule.

PAPER BAG CHORUS! Ready for Princeton's youngsters, these members of the Paper Bag Players are all set for this Saturday's two performances of their original play "Hot Feet" at McCarter.

News Of The THEATRES

"CAESAR" — IN PREMIERE

At the Rubicon. The action of "Caesar at the Rubicon" takes place during the six week period before Caesar, in defiance of the edict from Republican Rome, crossed the Rubicon river, thereby destroying the Roman Republic.

"Caesar at the Rubicon," the first play to be written by the renowned journalist and historian Theodore H. White, will have its world premiere this Friday at 8:30 p.m. in McCarter.

Arthur Lithgow is directing members of the repertory company led by Robert Blackburn as Caesar. Seymour Penzner plays the deputy commander Labienus and Richard Pilcher is the play's narrator, Pollio.

Others in the all-male cast are Tom Brennan as Caesar's chief of secretariat, Hirtius; Donald Gantry as Mark Anthony, Fred Morsell as Caesar's agent in Rome Balbus; Brendan Burke as Curio, Caesar's spokesman in the Senate and W. G. McMillan as Vercingetorix, the captured Gallic chieftain.

Loyd Williamson, Richard Jamieson, Tennyson Moore, Brock Putnam, Bob Schmidbauer, Jack Tate and Tazewell Thompson are also in the list of actors.

Grady Larkins has created a massive set designed to resemble the inner room on top of a watchtower overlooking the plains of Ravenna. James Edmund Brady has draped his actors in the plain fabrics of the Roman Republic.

ACTOR "KNIGHTED" By Japan. One of the Japanese actors who will come to McCarter in the National Theatre Noh Kyogen group, is himself a "National Living Treasure."

The designation is the equivalent of a British knighthood and is bestowed by the Japanese government. The actor is Manzo Nomura of the Nomura Kyogen Company.

The 27 Japanese actors will appear in McCarter on Tuesday, March 2 for a single performance. Tickets are now on sale.

Kyogen is the comedy theatre of Japan, usually performed on the same program as Noh plays, which are tragic in content. Kyogen is mostly dialogue, in comic, satiric or farcical vein. In contrast, the emphasis in Noh is on ethereal beauty, with dance and music predominant over dialogue.

TWO FOR THE YOUNG "Bags," Marionettes. Two special programs to brighten long winter days will be brought to McCarter especially for young audiences.

The Paper Bag Players will bring "Hot Feet" to the theatre this Saturday for performances at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

The Salzburg Marionette Theatre, will return to McCarter just a month later—on Saturday, March 13—with a pair of performances of "Snow White." They will be given at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Tickets for both are now on sale.

A Non-Physicist Ponders Play And Asks a Few Questions

The disappointment I felt at Theatre Intime's production of Friedrich Durrenmatt's "The Physicists" seemed contradicted by the warm response of the audience (who looked like a scientific and perhaps more understanding group) at the end of the play.

Though I was generally puzzled by it, I urge audiences to see the play, for it is a good one, I guess. (The second weekend of performances occurs this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.)

There are several contributing factors to my puzzlement. Did the cast find itself awed by the play's apparent profundity (The Physicists! Images of Power and Order and Universal Truths and Pomposity . . .) and therefore unable to find any humor in the absurd situation? Did Durrenmatt write a dull play, a static and talky play, which even the most dynamic acting can't rescue? Were the actors confused, ambivalent? Or am I?

The questions the play asks are probably important: To what degree of danger does man's brain control his world in this century? Does this physical control nullify moral issues? Knowing so much, do we have a future? What are the responsibilities of knowledge? If you know — if you are a world changing genius — is it your "duty . . . to remain unrecognized"?

Without attempting to take further guesses at the intentions or effects of the play, leaving them (I hope) to the audience, I report only that I could not give much of a damn about anything that occurred here or anyone who happened to be victimized by it. Apparently, even the spiders are victims of the technological power web.

It is indeed sad that the world is so untouched by love or justice or goodness, and it is equally sad that the world is so deeply touched by murder and weakness and samsara. Also it is sad, I think, that genius is coupled with madness, naivete, and visionary illuminations of The Universe. And it is sad that there is no hope, very sad. I am still guessing, I see.

In this case, I may be a poor learner and a poor perceiver and a poor reviewer, but the play did not elicit a feeling or clarity that I can trust. Nor did it create a tension I care to explain to myself.

It is very possible that none of my comments matter in this case, and you should see the play for yourself. I recommend that course.

The production is essentially competent, and some of the actors deserve mention: Peter Rerger, Carmen Apelgren, Andrew Bloch, Terry Burgler, Rush Rehm, Lenore Gischer and Richard Ferrugin, who also directed creditably. In fairness, credit should go to all others, too; it is all, ultimately, worth the effort.

John Coventry's set is worthy of my final praise: its order was a welcome contradiction to the ambivalences of the play.

CZECH FILM NEXT

"Intimate Lighting." Improvisations and observations of daily life characterize "Intimate Lighting," a film from Czechoslovakia scheduled for showing next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in McCarter's International Film Series.

Ivan Passer, the director, is perhaps less well-known than other Czech directors, such as Forman, Kadar and Menzel but he is known for a perceptive eye.

"Intimate Lighting" has almost no plot. It is basically a series of incidents based on the brief reunion of two former schoolmates who get drunk, fight and even play chamber music together. The end of the film finds each a little less satisfied with his own lot in life.

AVANT-GARDE WEST

Twelve from the Coast. A dozen West Coast film makers will be represented in McCarter's "Avant-Garde West" program which will be shown on Monday, February 22 at 8 p.m.

Among those present will be James Whitney, who works with computers ("Lapis"), Larry and Sheila Booth, whose "The Last Days of Spring" is a film about a family living in California's coastal woods, and Barry Spinello from Beckley, the man who works with hand-painted film ("Sound track").

Animation will include "Thank You Mask Man," a setting of a Lenny Bruce monologue dealing with the Lone Ranger and Tonto, and "Nine O'Clock News" from Don McLaughlin.

A Hit for Mr. Duncan

Stuart Duncan, 114 Elm Road, is one of the producers of Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," which opened in revival last week at the Sheridan Square Playhouse in New York.

The production received high praise from critics after its opening on February 3.

Clive Barnes of the New York Times, who began by saying that "'Godot' was revived again and very finely revived," concluded his lengthy review by writing that the play "is not just one of the best plays of the season, it is one of the masterpieces of the century and it is being given at the Sheridan Square with just the right mixture of love, sympathy and that fugitive understanding of man's heroic futility, that Beckett is all about."

Mr. Duncan's previous production successes off Broadway include Shaw's "Arms and the Man," and "Misalliance" and Ben Johnson's "The Alchemist."

NATURE'S BEST at 242 Nassau Street, a shop specializing in natural foods, has added take-out orders in curries and high-vitamin sandwiches. Above is George Herrington, a member of Satyam Shivam Sundaram ("Truth, Beauty, Good," the Alexander Street group that owns the store.

IT'S NEW To Us

TRY DATE NUT BREAD With Honey and Nut Butters. Since you're thinking so much about your health these wintery days, drop in at Nature's Best, 242 Nassau Street, and sample the health food take-out menu.

Try the almond butter or sesame butter on raisin bread, or sesame and cashew butters combined with honey on date nut bread. Sample the vegetable curry Parathas, prepared northern India style with fried brown rice, and Mung beans.

Spicy? "Yes," according to George Herrington, "but the curry spices, I think, can be used as a purifying agent." He's the manager and member of the organization, Satyam Shivam Sundaram," the owner, Nature's Best. It is a self-development group, headquartered on Alexander Street, and the name means "Truth, Beauty, Good."

Nature's Best is very clean and orderly shop, none of this rolled burlap bag on the floor attitude. The products — in clear, plastic bags, neat lidded barrels or in cans on shelves, are all natural foods. Many are organic foods.

Try Chic Pea Flour. If you're concerned about the commercial flours, try Nature's Best's whole wheat (20c lb.), rye flour (20c lb.) or soya flour (25c lb.) among others. We noticed chic pea flour, comparable to soybean flour and tastier. Mr. Herrington believes. Use it in a bread recipe or dust it on the loaf.

There are black eye beans, Mung beans, millet, green split peas, and so on. All hygienically stored in barrels with lids.

There are a great many vegetarian foods, with protein rich supplements, such as roasted soybeans. The eight ounce jar of roasted soybeans taste rather like peanuts, and there is 42% protein in the bean (98c).

We saw organic honey, fruit syrups, whole grain bread, medicinal teas — such as rosehip ("full of viamin C and very relaxing." Mr. Herrington comments.)

There's papaya tea (to help digest a big meal); peppermint tea ("relaxes the stomach and cools the body") and sassafrass and camomile teas.

To take home, or back to the office for lunch, try the Nature's Best "health food supers": (triple deckers, all) Mung bean sprouts with egg less mayonnaise, avacado, scallions, whole wheat organic bread that has dulse (a form of seaweed) in it ($1.75).

Or cream cheese on date-nut bread (60c), or a curry called "Sog," a spicy spinach and potato combination. The curries ($1.15 to $1.25), come with a yogurt salad of potato, tomato, scallions and mild spices, served with coffee or apple juice.

Health-Giving Spices. The spices interested us, and we discovered yoga beliefs in their medicinal effects: "crushed red pepper gives heat"; ground tumeric is "a blood purifier—one of the few things that get into the marrow of the bones"; cumin tea seed "enables you to see colors brighter"; coriander seed "cools off the effect of the other spices."

"If you're eating meat," Mr. Herrington comments further "I don't recommend black pepper. I think the heaviness of meat keeps it in the stomach so long that the pepper irritatoes the lining of the stomach."

Nature's Best is, in some ways, a "teaching" store — although nothing is offered unless you ask. But you learn that George Herrington is a musician — a drummer who became very ill and found his way back to health through natural foods and the philosophy of an Indian teacher-psychologist. Tariq Amead H and Joel Benjamin, who you'll also see working in the store, live in a house on Alexander Road with the current teacher, Shyam Bhatnagar.

INDOOR GAMES

To Challenge February. New games for children, adults and young adults keep coming into The Game Room, Nassau Street, near Tulane.

The children's games are action types, it seems: "Hang on Harvey!" and "Rattle Battle" among them. Harvey is a plastic figure who is raced down a perpendicular board against a competitor. He moves by way of pegs inserted in the board ($3.95)

And, in "Rattle Battle," players try to catch a marble as it makes its erratic decent down an upright plastic frame ($3.69). Both games are delighting the kids.

Then there are two games that the youngsters enjoy for years: "Avalanche" and "Trouble," both well on their way to becoming classics. "Avalanche," is a swinging gate game, played by two to six players, and the tools are marbles and matching cards.

"Trouble" is based on the time honored theme of the chase, with players moving or trying to—four men at once around the track, sending their opponents home whenever they can. For two to four players.

Three on Ecology. New games for adults – young adults will be interested, too — include three on ecology, one on race relations and still another that tests the old theory that actions speak louder than words.

"Smog" is played wih money, pegs, and tokens, with each player owning one quarter of the board. This is his "town." There are Outrageous Fortune cards and Day of Reckoning cards. As you probe the complexities of air pollution, you are confronted with a number of dilemmas. If you ban all the cars, the smog can still drift in from a neighboring town. ($9.95).

"Dirty Water" is another in the ecology vein — if you're polluting the water with detergents, you gain two algae, one weed, one bacterium and one worm — and you lose all your fish and one copepod. If the situation is steel industry acid pollution, you lose one of each species in your lake

Another man and nature type — and they all certainly make the intricacies of the situation a challenge — is titled "Ecology," a most intriguing succession of crisis situations in circles around a central green area.

"Blacks and Whites" is a game that sold out completely at The Game Room during Christmas season. It is a game that gives new insights into the direct and subtle confrontations between the races. We wondered what an ice breaker the game could be at interracial talk ins. It is a game of role identity, a player tries to live on welfare, or works for a people's park ($6.95)

Then, for another dip into tensions and empathy, "The Cities Game," played with no dice. Be the government, or an agitator, or a businessman or a slum dweller. Negotiate riots, teacher strikes ($6.95).

And for actions without words, try "Body Talk," which deals out a set of 52 outside cards containing four suits: not spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs, but "Hand," "Head," "Whole Body" and "Interpersonal." Each suit has 13 emotion cards: love, loneliness, joy, hate among them. There are also 10 blank cards for creating your own emotions. The object is to act out the cards dealt to you; each successful effort reducing the number of cards in your hands.

Weller Tract Rezoning May Take Effect July 1

The Township Planning Board, with a single negative vote, decided Monday night to recommend that Township Committee pass the ordinance changing the Weller Tract from a two-acre to a one-acre zone. But the ordinance would have a delayed action and wouldn't take effect until July 1, 1971.

The state's application for $75,000 in Federal money to help buy the tract for an addition to Battlefield Park expires June 30. The delay therefore gives the state time to acquire the land.

The lone "nay" was cast by Joseph R. Nini. He thinks the Institute for Advanced Study, which owns the Weller land, should be allowed to move ahead with plans for faculty housing if the state announces before June 30 that it will not buy the land.

Minot C. Morgan Jr., business manager of the Institute, told the Planning Board the Institute felt "insulted" by imposition of the July 1 date.

"We've already made an absolutely firm commitment to the state that we won't move until they do," he stated. "This restriction of June 30 hamstrings us."

Re-Play of a Week Ago. Monday night's meeting was largely a re-play of last week's public hearing on the ordinance before Township Committee. Representatives of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society, the Society of Friends whose Meeting House adjoins the Weller Tract, and Mr. Morgan repeated the reasons why the Township should or should not re-zone the area so that faculty houses can be built, cluster-fashion, on the non wooded section of the 12 acre plot.

Two questions were probed, explored and discussed at length: How and when did the 12-acre tract get removed from the map as "Open Space?" and how did it happen to wind up in the brand new "Education 2" zone when everybody thought it was in the "R 1" residence zone?

Lowell F. Curran Jr., attorney for the Battlefield Society, charged that in November, 1966, the Township Planning Board in executive session, voted to recommend to the Open Space Commission that the tract be removed from the map as "open space."

Why No Public Hearing? "My clients are shocked that so important a tract could be removed without a public hearing," he declared. He asked that it be restored to its former Open Space status. He also said the Township should act favorably on the Institute's request to make the tract a one acre R-3 zone if Federal and state money didn't come through.

Hans K. Sander, chairman of the Planning Board, explained that the board did indeed make that 1966 recommendation to the former Open Space Commission.

"Then we let it sit," he continued. "Our intent was to lump all the open space things together and have one big hearing in 1967. But then we waited until the Master Plan hearings of '68. All open space was fully discussed with the Open Space Commission in preparing that Master Plan, and public hearings were held."

Gordon Griffin, Planning Board attorney, emphasized that a designation on the Master Plan map didn't affect a zoning ordinance anyway.

But how about that E-2 designation? Mr. Sander conceded that the Weller Tract had "inadvertently" been included in the Educational Zone ordinance amendment passed in December.

"I didn't think the Weller Tract was in the E-2 zone," protested Mrs. Hasler Whitney, a member of the Battlefield Society.

"You weren't the only one who was surprised," said Mr. Sander glumly.

Cluster Preferred. In the E-2 zone, however, the Institute could go right ahead and build faculty apartments, dormitories or houses on one-acre plots. Cluster zoning, however, isn't allowed. The Institute could "cluster" in the R-3 one acre zone it seeks.

Topics Of The Town

Mrs. Sydnor Penick, a member of the Township Conservation Commission, charged that the Institute favored cluster because it would be economically advantageous, and besides the Institute could then get $75,000 from the state for the rest of the land.

"We have never set a price on the rest of the land," Mr. Morgan replied.

Mr. Griffin pointed out that if the Tract had been in cluster zoning i advertently zoned E2, it would still be in R1 when cluster zoning is allowed.

Is the Land for Sale? John D. Wallace, Township Committee representative on the Planning Board, threw Mr. Morgan into several seconds of stuned silence by asking if the Institute would consider an offer from the Township to buy the land.

"I didn't think the Township had that kind of money," Mr. Morgan finally managed to say. The Institute paid $150,000 for the tract.

Board members said Township policy allows the municipality to accept open space lands donated by private parties. Mr. Wallace suggested that Township Committee be asked to see whether the Institute would accept an offer from private citizens.

Mr. Wallace said he himself would like to see the state buy the property. Harold Taylor, clerk of Friends Meeting, said the Friends hadn't yet agreed among themselves on what action to recommend to the Township, although they favor state acquisition.

DINER, STORE DAMAGED

By Nassau Street Fire. Petrinello's Diner and the Whole Earth Center, both located at 173 Nassau Street, were damaged by fire and smoke early Tuesday morning.

Rudolph V. Gable, 68, was pulled from behind a counter in the diner by Douglas Watson Jr., a volunteer firemen, and given mouth-to mouth resuscitation. He was unconscious, said police chief Peter J. McCrohan, who was at the scene.

Mr. Gable, who lived in a room in the rear of the multipurpose building and who was a night custodian for the diner, was taken in an ambulance to the hospital. He was treated for smoke inhalation and kept for observation. The hospital reported his condition the next day as satisfactory.

The fire was reported by the security department of Princeton University. A general alarm sounded at 12:44 a.m. Damage to the diner was confined mainly to the kitchen and a dining area in the rear.

The diner is interwoven into a frame wooden building. The Whole Earth Center, adjacent to the diner, sustained fire damage to the second floor and smoke and water damage. No estimate of the total damage was available but Chief McCrohan described it as "considerable." Firemen left at 2:10.

Vacant House Burns: A general alarm was sounded at 7:37 Monday morning for a fire in a vacant farmhouse on the Great Road between Stuart and Drake's Corner Roads.

Fire in the house of the late William Kiefer was observed by Mrs. John Harper, a neighbor, who called police. The fire burned out two attic rooms of the frame house and caused extensive damage to the roof. A faulty chimney is believed to have been the cause of the blaze.

The house is maintained by William Kiefer of Cherry Valley Road, Mr. Kiefer's nephew. Township police said that a caretaker came every day to check the heating system.

CROSS SET AFIRE

At War Monument, Princeton, which likes to think it has everything, can now add cross burning to its list.

A seven by four-foot cross constructed of 2x4s and wrapped in kerosene soaked canvas was tied to a flagpole at the World War I Monument site at Mercer and Stockton Street Monday night, and set ablaze. Pfc. Bernard Lenhard and Pfc. Gerald Patterson answered the 8:26 p.m. call by a Mercer Street resident that something was burning at the Monument and quickly doused the cross with extinguishers from their patrol car.

Chief Peter J. McCrohan admitted the cross was styled on those of the Ku Klux Klan but declined to speculate who may have erected the cross and for what reason. He added

Cause of Gasoline Leak Located

Borough officials are keeping their fingers crossed that the mystery of the gasoline leak that is plaguing the area around the Bell Telephone building at 239 Nassau Street has been solved.

"We're not certain this will end the problem but we certainly hope so," said Borough Engineer Donald Harney.

The "solution" involves removing three underground storage tanks from the Mobil Station next door and replacing them in a week or so with three new, 6,000-gallon tanks. "These tanks are larger and we hope they'll have enough capacity when they are operable that the station can rip out a fourth tank," Mr. Harney said.

The station has four underground tanks. Two of the three being taken out are suspect; the third is being removed just to start with a clean slate.

Last week, Bernard Glover, superintendent of buildings for the Borough, took a sample of the leaking product to Pittsburgh to be analyzed. Two previous test of the Mobil tanks had revealed no leakage, but a third, more sophisticated vial test, revealed that one was leaking about .3 of a gallon every 10 minutes. "That's not much but if it happens over a period of time it could cause fumes," Mr. Harney said.

He added that the rock structure under Nassau Street was so hard and had been broken so many time to accommodate telephone and service lines that it would be quite possible to get fumes in a home a block and a half away from the source of the leak. Gas fumes have been plaguing offices and residents in the area since last fall.

that contrary to rumors he had heard, police found no Klan literature in the area. There were no notes of any kind, he said.

Police removed the charred cross to their headquarters in Borough Hall. "The matter is still under investigation" Chief McCrohan said. He admitted that he has been in telephone contact with Chief Lawrence Archer of Hightstown, where there have been four similar cross burnings this year.

The cross at the War Memorial was tied to the aluminum flag pole flying the American flag. Flames scorched the pole and burned a rope lanyard. A New Jersey state flag flies from a duplicate pole on the opposite side of the monument.

NEW RULES ISSUED

For Safe Ice Skating. The Princeton Recreation Department has issued new rules and regulations governing safe skating at Carnegie Lake. They are in effect now.

There are two main features: the number of safe skating areas has been reduced from three to two and violators who skate outside the designated areas will be subject to arrest as trespassers by Township police.

The only two authorized areas for skating are between the Washington Road and the Harrison Street bridges, and in front of the sailboat dock off the Princeton-Kingston Road. Eliminated as a safe skating area has been the other side of the Washington Road bridge near the crew house and Hibben Magie Apartments.

R. Donald Barr, executive director of the Princeton Recreation Board which oversees the safety program at the lake, reports that these new steps were the result of an agreement among representatives of the University, which owns the lake, the Joint Recreation Board and Township police.

Copies of "1971 Rules and Regulations Regarding Lake Carnegie", which also contains general rules for all seasons, may be obtained at the Recreation Office in Township Hall and in the clerk's office in Borough Hall.

Why? Why was the crew house area eliminated? Water in that area moves faster than in other authorized areas and moving water means thinner ice. More time is needed for the water to freeze and less—considerably less — to thaw. Water is deeper there.

Because there are no natural barriers there to keep people from skating where faster moving water creates a hazard, control is a problem. Finally, permitting people to skate on both sides of the Washington Road Bridge encourages movement under the bridge — dangerous because ice conditions near bridges are subject to sudden change.

The four corners of the safe area off the sailboat dock will be designated by four huge shoreline signs, some 15 feet tall with a highly visible luminous mark. Explanatory signs will be posted around the area.

The safe area will extend just below the dock some 350 yards down the lake and across the entire width of the lake between the two markers — roughly 350 by 400 yards. Mr. Barr reported that he hopes

HOW ABOUT THERE? Getting together on the placement of signs that would mark off the four corners of the safe skating area near the sailboat dock area of Carnegie Lake are (from left) Clifton A. Bischoff, plant superintendent for the University; R. Donald Barr, executive director of the Princeton Recreation Department; and Peter W. Sparhawk, Princeton crew coach. Problem was how to install signs so they would not cause possible confusion with crew race markers along the shore.

Three to Be Honored

The three Princeton residents who rescued three skaters from the chill waters of Lake Carnegie on January 12 will be honored by the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross and by Township Committee next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

Miss Heida Faith, who rescued Sam Denham and Michael Slotznick, and Mrs. Karl Hernquist and Mrs. James Clark who came to the rescue of Daniel De Weist will receive the Red Cross "Certificate of Recognition for Extraordinary Personal Action."

Certificates will be presented by Mrs. John Lasley, co-chairman, with Mrs. Bernhard Deichman of the Red Cross' Water Safety Committee. Township Committee will pass a resolution of commendation to the three recipients.

to have the signs installed in time for the next freeze. They would be removed during the summer.

SUSPECTS CHARGED In Wallet Thefts. Two Princeton men are free on $150 bail each to await a hearing March 3 in Borough court in connection with their alleged role in the theft of nine men's wallets last month from a locker room at the YMCA. The victims lost a total of $334.

Conway McGowan, 21, 246 John Street, was arrested Friday afternoon at the Princeton Hospital dispensary where he was being treated for a laceration of the lip which he told police he had received in a car accident in another town. Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm were the arresting officers.

Stephen L. Woolford, 19, 120 Witherspoon Street, was arrested Saturday on Nassau Street by Ptl. Anthony Ranfone and Ptl. Timothy Hunzing. Both had been suspects in the case after police revealed they had been given temporary memberships by the Y to use the weight room located next to the locker room where the wallets were stolen. Ptl. Arthur Jackson, who had been handling the investigation charged both with larceny.

Brother Arrested. Less than an hour after his brother was arrested, Jerome McGowan, 23, 246 John, was also arrested at the hospital for allegedly using loud and offensive language toward John W. Kauffman, executive vice president of the hospital. Mr. Kauffman signed a complaint.

McGowan was released on $50 bail set by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. and faces a hearing in Borough court.

TWO NABBED HERE In Gambling Raid. A Borough and a Township man were among 12 arrested Monday in a combined gambling raid in Trenton, Hamilton, Ewing and Princeton by New Jersey State Police.

Arrested around 1 p.m. at the R. F. Johnson Electric Company, 20 Tulane Street, by Detective Robert McMahon were Thomas H. Johnson, 29, 35 Park Place, and Joseph R. Baldino, 45, 511 Ewing Street. Borough police were notified after the arrests.

Both had been suspects in Mr. Johnson was released on $2,000 bail. He has been charged with possession of lottery slips, engaging as a messenger for the purpose of a lottery, and maintaining a gambling establishment. Charged with possession of lottery slips, Mr. Baldino was released in his own recognizance. Both are scheduled to appear in Borough court on Wednesday.

Detective Gregory Stith of the State Police made the charges against Johnson and Baldino, both employees of Johnson Electric. The raid was the culmination of six weeks of surveillance and the use of phone taps, police said.

Registration Deadline

The League of Women Voters of the Princeton area reminds residents that in order to vote in the March 30 Regional School Board Election, they must be registered by Thursday, February 18.

Citizens not previously registered to vote in regular municipal elections should visit the clerk's of fice in the municipal building between 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily Monday through Friday. There will be no hours February 15.

DRIVER IS CHARGED After Hitting Pole. Paul J. DeCastro, 18, 388 Terhune Road, was charged with careless driving, after his car skidded on Dodds Lane Saturday morning and struck a utility pole.

Young De Castro was treated at Princeton Hospital for lacerations of the mouth and worked tech. The entire front end of his car was damaged.

He told police he had braked when his car started to skid but was unable to prevent it from ramming the pole. Ptl. David Cromwell noted in his report, however, that there were no tire patches 20 feet from the pole and that damage to the car indicated excessive speed for road conditions.

Three Car Accident. The front ends of two small foreign cars were totaled when they collided early Thursday afternoon on the Princeton-Kingston Road at the intersection of Dodds Lane.

Robert M. Dilatush, 40, of Cranbury, and William Jarnagin, 58, of Shrewsbury, the drivers, were both treated at Princeton Hospital for lacerations of the face and knees. Sheila Landau, 36, of North Brunswick, driving behind Mr. Jarnagin, told police that he cut in front of the Dilatush car in attempting to turn left onto Dodds Lane. In the ensuing collision, the Jarnagin car was spun around, causing it to strike the Landau car on the left rear fender.

Ptl. David Potts ticketed Mr. Jarnagin for failure to yield the right of way. It was snowy and wet at the time of the mishap.

FIVE SPEEDERS FINED In Borough Court. Five Princeton area drivers were fined Monday in Borough court for speeding.

Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. fined Preston Evers, 31, 288 Witherspoon Street, $26; Jean E. Wilson, 43, 210 Constitution Drive, $22; Emilio Castaneda, 33, Highway 206, $20; Frank Cuomo Jr., 41, 419 Franklin Avenue, $18; and

Sewer Operating Committee Lacks Proper Direction, Chace Charges

Sewers, incinerator and dump in Princeton are run by "an uncertain and top-heavy salaried management reporting to a committee of citizen volunteers who meet on a haphazard schedule," charges Township Committeeman Dean Chace in a statement this week.

Re-organization is essential, Mr. Chace declares. He proposes a full-time Supervisory Sanitary Engineer responsible directly to the Sewer Operating Committee; a full-time secretary; re-organization of the SOC to expand its present three-man membership to five professionals; regular reports from the Sanitary Engineer to the SOC on progress toward goals and a new policy of regular meetings open to the public.

The full-time engineer idea was proposed last May, Mr. Chace points out, and was latter adopted unanimously by all three SOC members: Foster Jacobs, University representative and chairman; James Andrews, at that time Borough Council representative, and Mr. Chace. Township Committee also agreed unanimously.

At present, the Borough Engineer among his other duties, is in charge of the plant; the assistant engineer gives full time to the plant, and is paid entirely by the SOC; the Borough administrator and engineer do the hiring.

Wrong Headquarters. "All responsible people are housed in Borough Hall," rather than on the sewer site, Mr. Chace points out, and a Township resident must call Borough Hall to register a complaint.

The one-time cost of setting up an office at the sewer-incinerator site would be $2,000, he estimates. Secretary's salary would be split three ways — Borough, Township, University. Employment of the full time Sanitary Engineer "would free the Borough Engineer to pursue other tasks in the Borough.

Mr. Chace estimates "a 50% increase in the effectiveness of our sewer, landfill and incinerator operations by eliminating the Borough engineer and administrator from the present management hierarchy. In addition, we will be able to identify ONE salaried person who is directly responsible for management of these operations."

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said last week the Borough doesn't think re-organization will solve present problems, although Mr. Chace's ideas are "supported in principle."

The mayor added, "The Borough is willing to have the assistant engineer as head man at the plant, and the SOC can direct him as they wish."

Mr. Chace says problems of organization "point to the need to consolidate Princeton Borough and Township."

Battlefield's Authenticity Merits Its Retention

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Dear Sir:

The following comments are relative to the landscape containing what is left of the site where the battle of Princeton took place — a very small acreage of great national significance — a lesson in values, even for a giant neighbor as the Institute for Advanced Study.

Advanced Study — Yes, but not for advanced study in Architecture, Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning, due to the apparent neglect or disdain for the authenticity of a surrounding as container contributing to what becomes man's environment.

As an illustration of neglect or disdain for authenticity:

1) Look at the first building of the Institute erected during the thirties. It is an imitation of a long past style from Great Britain. In fields other than architecture, the words "fake" or "counterfeit" would be used instead of the word "imitation." But, visible from the battlefield, it conveys notice that "the British are coming." Architecture speaks.

2) Look at the expulsion from the grounds of the Institute (in the fifties) of four columns, subsequently moved by others near the resting place of unknown soldiers, and once used as background in a published photograph of a fashion show, the ladies escorted by a manicured dog; a case of confrontation between authenticity and desecration.

3) Look at the present intent of a housing development contributing to the strangulation of the battlefield.

Stop, look and ask yourself what is the meaning of the world "authenticity" as related to a great historical site — the Princeton battlefield.

J. LABATUT

EDITOR'S NOTE: Professor Emeritus after 40 years at Princeton and former Dean of Graduate Studies in Architecture, Prof. Labatut served as chairman of the Princeton Township Planning Board for a decade following its establishment in 1948.

Recycling the Commuters.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Those of us who are sincerely interested in seeing what can be achieved in recycling our garbage would do well to look at the Penn-Central 7:40 a.m. from Princeton Junction.

Cars that lost the bloom of youth in the early days of this century, and were mercifully put to pasture with the advent of World War II, have been gutted and the disembowelled shells repainted brightly so that the re-incarnation resembles an overaged streetwalker bravely making her rounds. From the odds and ends of the old seats, brand new padded ones have been made and installed in close order in a little one-and-a-half and two and a half body arrangement.

Overhead racks have been made so that commuters can now enjoy a view unobscured by these amenities that formerly held their coats and attache cases. Fans of "Gunsmoke" will admire the cars. If P.C. couldn't accommodate facilities to the commuters, P-C fitted the commuters to the facilities. Classical schoolers will find a parallel with the Procrustean Bed, in which short guests were stretched and tall ones had their legs cut off to fit.

The net result shows what can be done with a little ingenuity and an equal amount of malice — a good example of some of the finest thinking of the 12th century. Granted the creeping dehumanization of our society didn't start with the railroad, but it flourishes here and spreads like a good case of poison ivy — not fatal, but annoying to the point of exasperation.

Penn-Central management and New Jersey State supervisors surely have earned their rightful place beside the managements of Rolls-Royce and Lockheed.

In Defense of Larry Ivan...

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to defend Larry Ivan and his coaching methods. I played for Mr. Ivan in the 1969-70 season.

His dedication was shown in every practice and at every game. He does everything for his teams except go out on the floor and play for them. Mr. Ivan instills a pride into each player that will stay with them a lifetime. Every player gives 100 percent at each practice.

We were proud of our defense. He taught us that with a good defense you did not have to run an offense. Let me explain this, it is a little more complicated than it sounds. When in a full court press if the other team can't get the ball over mid-court they can't score. And with a good defense you can steal the ball and drive for the lay-up.

We had the best won-lost record of any of Larry Ivan's teams. Last season we won when we ran our offense and when we played good defense. We also won when we played poor offense but good defense. Towards the end of the season we tried to run with many teams and we lost to every one of them.

Mr Ivan knows what his clubs can do and he told us. If they could run and gun he would let them, but in all of his past teams they were too slow and not quite big enough.

His teams will win but they need support and if they get support it will help the player's mental attitude immensely. Nobody wants to play in front of empty stands. It is Princeton High School. Why not come and support the school you are paying for.

Rutgers Basketball Supported.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Many people in New Jersey suffer from a kind of provincialism which damages their own best interests. This thinking was displayed by your writer who complained of Governor Cahill's support for the construction of a new multipurpose sports facility for Rutgers University.

He pointed out the fact that at present a field house with a capacity of 10-12,000 was not realistic in light of the quality of basketball at Rutgers, which, incidentally, is not at all poor; just a few years ago the team went to the NIT. What he fails to realize is that Rutgers is the state university of New Jersey, and that it should play a significant role in providing the qualified sons and daughters of New Jerseyites with quality education.

It fails to do this because there is relatively little support for the university in the state. That this is so is demonstrated by the extraordinarily poor facilities at Rutgers and its inability to matriculate large numbers of potentially good students, who are forced to seek higher education in other states.

In my opinion this lack of support occurs partly because Rutgers' sports teams have not captured the imagination of the people of the state. Most first class state universities in this country gain a considerable amount of popular support when their teams win and win again against first class competition.

How can Rutgers get the support it needs? An effective lobby at the State Legislature is necessary. It could also promote a sports program, and to do this it must have decent athletic facilities. The people will follow — the million or so people living within 30 minutes of Rutgers are the potential market.

Rutgers University, after all, does have about 18,000 students residing in the New Brunswick area. The situation at Princeton is hardly comparable.

ARTHUR GETIS
92 Moore Street

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS agrees with all that Mr. Getis says about the role that Rutgers must play in the future of education in New Jersey. It stands, however, on its estimate of the drawing power of Rutgers basketball in the foreseeable future: even with a new field house an actuality, competition in the east for basketball talent is so extreme that 10-12,000 seats is a wholly unrealistic estimate of potential attendance, and 6-7,000 is a much more logical demand to place upon the taxpayers.

Battlefield Vital to Princeton.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton must face up to its historic obligations.

Today, a section of the Princeton battlefield — the site of Washington's first major victory — is in grave danger of being turned over to a housing development instead of being preserved as a "living museum" and an open space for our children's children. This area is located off Mercer Road near the Quaker Meeting House.

The concern of hundreds of Princeton citizens should not be dismissed because of the interest of a small group who wish to invade this historic site.

Without vision, it is inevitable that the Princeton Community will lose its integrity.

Avoid Another Black Mark.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Because so much of the Institute for Advanced Study's surrounding acreage is as yet undeveloped, we have the illusion that the Battlefield Park is fairly adequate, but a glance at the map shows how small it actually is and how the Weller Tract intrudes between it and the historic Quaker Meeting house.

I am not a Quaker but merely one of hundreds who have enjoyed the very special peace and quiet of their property and hope to see it protected. The time to act is now, for once houses are built it will be virtually impossible to remove them.

It has been humiliating to see New Jersey rated so low in several recent surveys. Because of Princeton's historic importance, people all over the country are watching us now. Let's not incur another black mark through negligence.

ELEANOR M. DELANOY

Save Battlefield Park.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a past resident of Princeton, I can honestly say that Princeton hasn't changed at all since I left. For all the extreme education that daily prevails, Princeton's society is ignorant.

What is it going to take to save the Battlefield park? Do we have to threat, revolt and protest to save this environment from destruction? For the people who aren't historically minded, wouldn't you want a peaceful place to take your kids 10 year from now on a quiet Sunday afternoon?

It's plain to see that not too many residents think ahead, they only think of now and their own lives. Now is the time to preserve the park's future, not tomorrow. Act, now, to save this beautiful park.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

There is considerable concern about the inexorable growth of solid waste and the burden it poses on all communities. At present, each of us throws away about five lbs. of trash per day. By 1980, it will increase to about eight lbs. per day.

Princeton residents now generate 50 tons of municipal waste per day. What can we do?

The problems involved in solid waste disposal are complex and the possible solutions are complicated and expensive. As citizens we cannot ignore it and as tax payers we will inevitable have to pay more — much more.

We pay at the store for product packaging in a variety of materials - much of which is excessive and unnecessary. It is wasteful of natural resources and adds to pollution in many ways.

We also pay to dispose of the material and ultimately we will pay for cleaning up the pollution as well. We would serve ourselves better by reducing the amount of waste we each generate.

We should continue to recycle at least those containers it has been traditional to recycle. We can insist that soft drink and beer distributors provide their product in returnable bottles only.

We can discipline ourselves and remember to return the bottles, even to the store. It is a relatively small thing to do. However, if each of us contributes in even this small way, it will be significant and who knows it may even encourage us to help in other ways, too.

Let us join with other communities and support an ordinance which would prohibit the sale of soft drinks and beer in non-returnable containers.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In any reputable school of journalism, the first thing one learns, after typing, is that, in reporting a story, one never uses the word Negro, Caucasian, Oriental or any other such term unless it has a direct bearing on the story, e.g., John Smith, Princeton's first Negro mayor. But not John Smith, a Negro, was arrested for peddling dope. This is accepted style in even the shabbier newspapers.

I was surprised to read last week that you were unaware of this tradition, which I have never seen questioned before, and appalled when you took Gayraud S. Wilmore Jr. to task for criticising your

Some newspapers and many reviews in print and self-conscious ways to read books on using the elements of journalistic style. It might be worthwhile to invest in several of these.

Meanwhile, if you insist on preserving your archaic and absurd racist style, at least give the currently fashionable term, black, rather than Negro.

MICHAEL DORN

108 Kingston Road

Editor's Note: Mr. Dorn's comments are hardly germane to the point under discussion. TOWN TOPICS and Mr. Wilmore were discussing the need for identification by color of skin of a suspect in a crime — NOT the use of a man's race following his arrest. In more than two decades of covering news of the Princeton community, TOWN TOPICS has never identified a man by his race after he has been arrested.

ECOLOGY LECTURES SET By Princeton University

Princeton University is sponsoring a 10-week lecture series entitled "Rescuing Man's Environment," a major program designed to inform both the campus and the community of the environmental crisis and the possible cures for its alleviation.

Open to the public free of charge, the series will begin Wednesday, February 17, with a talk by Princeton demographer Dr. Ansley J. Coale in Wallace Wilson School. And from Wednesdays and all will be given at 8:30 (Check TOWN TOPICS calendar each week for details.)

The lectures will feature speakers from the University as well as from outside the campus. According to Dr. Robert C. Axtmann, Chairman of the Council on Environmental Studies, they are designed for the non-specialist, particularly the student and the man and woman on the street, who wishes a deeper understanding of the social, economic, political and biological factors involved in the struggle for a cleaner environment.

At the University we have several areas of research which in regard to environmental quality," Dr. Axtmann, who is the Mobil Professor of Chemical Engineering, noted. "In addition to research and the training of specialists, we feel a particular obligation to help provide the educational background required by an informed citizenry if it is to respond to the all-pervasive environmental issues of today's world.

"The lecture series, we hope, will be the first event in a continuing town-gown partnership directed toward the problems of environmental reform," Dr. Axtmann continued.

Dr. Coale, who will lead off the series next Wednesday, is the William Church Osborn Professor of Public Affairs at Princeton and Director of the Office of Population Research. An internationally-known demographer, he has recently been involved in analyzing the economic and population factors that contribute to the environmental crisis. A recent article by Dr. Coale in "Science" magazine contends that economic factors are more important than population growth in threatening the quality of American life."

According to Dr. Thomas G. Spiro, Princeton Associate Professor of Chemistry and coordinator of the series, success of this first town-gown venture could lead in the future to similar lecture series to community participation in University seminars and workshops on the environment, to development of University community task forces, and the like.

In attempting to ensure the widest possible community participation, the Council on Environmental Studies has sent invitations to local professional and service organizations of all kinds, and to schools, industries and religious organizations.

41 Years of Toting the Mail Ends

When John A. Britton began delivering mail here he earned 57 cents an hour as a substitute carrier, making two trips a day from the post office located in two rooms in the Lower Pyne Building on Nassau and Witherspoon streets.

This past Friday, 41 years later, Mr. Britton made his last run from the Postal Annex in West Windsor on his motorized route along Rosedale and Carter Roads. During his years of service to the Princeton community, he worked under four postmasters and watched the postal operations here expand from those two rooms in Lower Pyne to Palmer Square, and then to a second building.

Mr. Britton's first regular route was on the University Campus. With two deliveries daily he usually worked 45-50 hours a week. Princeton is the only post office in the country that delivers mail directly to students' rooms. Near the end of World War II, Mr. Britton switched to the Nassau Street business section, and 12 years ago took over the Rosedale Carter mounted route.

Born in Flemington, Mr. Britton and his family moved to West Windsor Township. He went to school there and at Princeton High and now lives at 264 Fisher Place, Penns Neck. His son, David, is also a career mail carrier with the Princeton Post Office.

Young Tenor Pleases in Schubert Song Cycle

It is not often that one gets to hear the great Schubert song cycle, "Die schone Mullerin," in its entirety at a "live" concert nowadays.

On Monday night in McCarter Theatre, Series II concert goers heard Ernst Haefliger, tenor, with Franz Rupp at the piano, present this exquisite music in its purest form. The texts from Wilhelm Muller's poetry of the same name are examples of early Romanticism, and though perhaps not profound works of art in themselves, reflect early Romantic thought regarding the freedom to pursue one's own destiny.

There are basically four characters in the 20 poems which Schubert chose to set to music. There is the young wanderer, (the miller). There is the brook (which guides him throughout the cycle of songs); the beautiful miller's daughter (the unyielding and later fickle object of the youth's desires); and the hunter (who wins the girl from the sensitive youthful poet's grasp, denying him all that he probably never really attained in the first place.)

This might serve as the story of Schubert himself, not in a literal sense of course but in the romantic spirit of the man's life. The music is flawlessly written. There is not an extra note anywhere.

Some songs are strophic (repeated nu[illegible] to different verses) while other pieces are through composed (i.e., continuously developing from an initial musical idea). The piano parts are just as important as the voice, the piano often taking the role of the moaning while the singer performs the character of the young miller. Wrestling and Track Stealing the Headlines As Tiger Basketball and Hockey Teams Fade

Disappointed sports fans who have been lamenting the dwindling fortunes of Princeton basketball and hockey teams this winter have been sitting in on the wrong action. While these two teams have been struggling to win a scant eight of the 25 games they have played, the Tiger wrestlers have all but wrapped up their second straight Ivy title and the indoor track team has achieved near-miracles where little more than mediocrity had been expected.

Last Saturday, for example, while the quintet saw its record drop to a punchless 7-and-10 mark, and the hockey team was absorbing an 8-0 shellacking from Harvard for its 15th loss in 16 games, the wrestlers went to Philadelphia for what had been estimated as a close match with Penn. When they won eight of ten bouts to record a solid 32-6 triumph, the outcome virtually assured successful defense of the championship they had won a year ago.

Same day, new coach Larry Ellis wrote another chapter in the Princeton record book when his track team added highly regarded Army to its list of victims which already included Navy, thus giving Princeton its first triumphs over these strong service teams in the span of a single season. Going into Saturday's triangular meet here with Penn and Columbia (the old Polar Bear event which was held out doors for many years), the Tigers were unbeaten.

From point of view of the casual spectator, however, watching either wrestling or track does not have the same appeal as basketball or hockey. Whereas the latter both provide continuous action, there are long periods during both track and wrestling meets when not even suspense is building.

The Inside Story. To be a basketball or hockey fan, one must merely enjoy athletics. To like wrestling or track, one must be something of a buff.

How many fans, for example, who know the minute a basketball team switches from man-to-man to a 2-1-2 zone can explain the point system which determines the winner of a wrestling bout when there is no fall? How much riding time is necessary to gain a point? What is a "predicament"?

The real track buff, whose name first became legion when Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venzke and Bill Bonthron began to pack the smoke-filled galleries of the old Madison Square Garden in the 30s to watch the drama of the indoor mile, is a blend of statistical knowledge and a connoisseur of form. He can tell you in one breath whether a toss of 56 feet, 6 inches will endanger the IC4A record for the 16 lb. shot, and will explain to you in the next what was wrong with so-and-so's form in the take-off on the long jump.

Track Coach Larry Ellis
Bricks without Straw

At the college level, too, lack of publicity is a deterrent to attendance. Even in these days of curtailed coverage, basketball and hockey stories and scores almost invariably see the light of print; wrestling and track are rarely recorded anywhere in detail, so that even the fan who cares enough about the outcome cannot find it.

Intercollegiates Here. For the first time in history, the IC4A Indoor Meet will be held in Princeton—Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6—as the collegians revert to the campus after years in the Garden. The following weekend, regional championships for NCAA wrestling will be staged in Jadwin. The latter, incidentally, will frustrate dyed-in-the-wool basketball fans, since no playoff such as last winter's Penn-Niagara game will be held here because of the conflict.

Before the IC4A's, Jadwin will be host to worthwhile indoor action in both Saturday's meet, bringing a very strong Penn and a weak Columbia team here, and, the following weekend, to the annual Harvard-Yale-Princeton affair. Penn may be more than the rejuvenated Tigers can handle, and Harvard is almost certainly too balanced, but Ellis has made far more of what material he had when he arrived on the scene last fall than anyone had expected.

Johnny Johnston, whose success is traceable to a combination of his coaching ability and his ceaseless persuasiveness as a recruiter, is about to give the Tigers a third Ivy championship in the six seasons he has been here. When he took over, Princeton had not topped the .500 mark in the sport in seven campaigns; today he is working on his fifth straight winning year.

Brown Saturday and Yale on the 27th are the remaining two meets in Jadwin, with the visit to Harvard on the 20th expected to provide the toughest hurdle to the Ivy title.

QUINTET BADLY MIRED

Future a Question Mark. Within the space of three hours in Jadwin Gym Friday night Princeton's freshman basketball team lost to Columbia, 62-60, after blowing a ten-point lead and Princeton's varsity was beaten by the Lions, 53-50, after having held a comfortable six-point half-time advantage. In both contests, superior personnel playing at home was beaten because of its unwillingness to realize that basketball is a thinking man's game.

Combined with a constant flow of errors — wild passes, forced shots from poor position, lack of anticipation of the opposition's attacking style — is a near total lack of aggressiveness. With the exception of Brian Taylor's generally fine play and an occasional authoritative rebound by Bill Kapler, no one on the Princeton basketball scene today is playing the kind of take-charge basketball that enabled a Columbia quintet with thoroughly ordinary personnel to win going away.

Lacking a single player of unusual ability and shorter than most good teams are today, the Lions do the best with what they have to earn an 11-5 mark on the year and a tie for second in the Ivy League. Princeton, now 6-10, may well finish out of first division and below .500 overall for the first time in 15 years.

TWO POINTS IN A LOSING CAUSE: Captain Bill Sickler (31) pops a field goal over Columbia's Foley Jones to help Princeton take a six-point half-time lead against Lions. However, a prolonged cold spell shortly after the intermission cost Tigers the ball game, 53 to 50. (Chris Lutz Photo)

What makes the Tigers' inability to realize anything close to their potential the more disconcerting to the thousands of fans in this area is the apparent fact that Pennsylvania's two year dynasty will end with the current season. Both Steve Bilsky and Dave Wohl, the backcourt pair who lubricate the Quaker machine, are seniors and nothing close to replacements for them are in sight.

Although the season was well past the halfway mark last weekend, the loss to Columbia marked the true turning point. Victory here, and the Tigers have an even chance to finish 16-9, runner up to Penn and an outside shot at an invitation to the NIT. Instead, they will be hard put to oust such traditional also-rans as Harvard and Brown from first division, and face the risk of being debited with the worst Princeton record in basketball since the 1955-56 team finished 11-13.

Early Lead Lost. Ahead by 27-21 at the half, the Tigers went better than four minutes shortly after the intermission without scoring a point, and nearly eight while they made a lone basket. Down by 38-33, they drew even at 41-all but by then Columbia had the momentum, the desire and the common sense, and no team can win without at least one of these factors in its favor.

A tight zone the Lions used after early man-to-man play saw Taylor score 13 first half points cut his production in the final 20 minutes to 4. His shooting eye faltered and with less than a minute left, he stole the ball but missed a driving layup which would have tied the score at 50-all. When Columbia's Leon Williams stole the rebound from Ted Manakas, that was the ball game.

Next night, Cornell's 4-14 quintet trailed by 40-22 at the half and by as many as 24 points midway through the final period before the reserves for both teams began to see action. Taylor hit for 27 in the 33 minutes he played, giving an occasionally spectacular demonstration of steals, jack knife layups and accurate 30-foot jumpers. With both teams far out of the running — the Ithacans are about an even bet to go 0-14 in Ivy action — it was as low-key a game as Jadwin has seen.

This weekend, the Tigers play Yale (3-13) at New Haven Friday and a considerably improved Brown quintet (9-7) at Providence the following night. If they cannot handle

We finally came up with a beautiful picture of a Volkswagen.

A Volkswagen starts looking good when everything else starts looking bad.

Let's say it's late at night and you can't sleep. It's 10 below and you forgot to put antifreeze in your car.

(A Volkswagen doesn't use antifreeze. Its engine is cooled by air.)

Let's say it's now morning: You start your car and the gas gauge reads Empty.

Let's say you notice on your way out of the driveway that every other car on your block is stuck in the snow.

(A VW goes very well in snow because the engine is in the back. It gives the rear wheels much better traction.)

Let's say you make it into town and the only parking space is half a space between a snow plow and a big, fat wall.

(A VW is small enough to fit into half a parking space.)

Let's say it's now 9:15 a.m. and the only other guy in the office is your boss.

(Now what could be more beautiful than that?)

the Bruins, that second division berth will become a virtual certainty.

CAN TIGERS TOP YALE? Eli Skaters in Trouble, Too. About the only edge that Yale's hockey team has over Princeton's virtually winless sextet is that it has topped Army and Dartmouth, two of the teams which have beaten the Tigers as they near the end of the year with a 1-15 mark. Yale has lost 13 games and tied one of the 16 it has played.

The Blue will be here Saturday at 2 in Baker Rink. Penn, which the Tigers were to face here this Wednesday, is on the schedule for a return game on Wednesday the 17th in the Quakers' new rink in Philadelphia.

Two more defeats came Princeton's way last week as the Tigers lost to Brown here, 4 to 2, and then were methodically chopped apart by Harvard. The final score at Cambridge was 8 to 0 as Dan DiMichele of the Crimson got the hat trick and one to spare.

Brown's winning margin was achieved in a manner that deflates a losing team completely, the victors scoring two of their goals while they were a man short. An identical Princeton defensive lapse made the difference at Providence in December, when the Bruins overcame a 4-1 deficit and won, 6 to 5.

Both teams scored on a breakaway in the first period, the visitors as early at 3:17, while Princeton was pressing the attack with a man advantage, but without the ability to control the puck. Sophomore Bob Bezan got the Tigers even at 15:53 when the Brown goalie came out to meet him, missed the intended meeting with Bezan and watched the Tiger forward flip the puck in unmolested.

Bezan then gave the home team a short-lived advantage with a tip in early in the second round but another Brown goal while Princeton was a man up knotted the score. The Bruins later counted twice more to win, holding the Orange and Black at bay so thoroughly that in the third period, shots on goal were 20 to 3 for the victors. What made the game particularly frustrating to Princeton fans was the fact that goalie Ed Swift was far superior to Brown's netminder but the Tigers put only 29 shots on target to 56 for the Bruins.

BRIDGEWATER NEXT

PHS Edged Again in Overtime. If breaks even out over a season then the Princeton High School basketball team has a backlog of luck it can draw on the rest of the winter.

In their most recent start against Montgomery here Friday, the Little Tigers down by eight points with 1:06 to go battled back to earn a 44-44 deadlock at the end of regulation time but lost it, 54-48, in overtime. "One more," said PHS coach Larry Ivan. "It's tough."

And it does seem that in the luck department, the Little Tigers have come up on the short end of things. Twice they have lost one-point decisions and now this. With the insertion of Tony Bailey in the lineup, the Blue and White has gotten some added scoring.

At the same time, Ivan says the team is playing its best defensive ball ever. But of seven remaining foes, PHS has met four previously, and lost each time. The three first-time opponents — Bridgewater, Mendham and Hightstown —don't figure to be pushovers so on top of its better play, PHS is going to need a little more luck than it has received so far if it hopes to do anything about its present 2-14 mark.

Friday evening at 8, PHS will play host to Bridgewater and Tuesday evening at the same time it will entertain the Spartans of Steinert High School. After that only two more home games remain, including the season's finale with Hopewell Valley.

Bridgewater has had almost as poor a season as Princeton, so the Little Tigers have a fine opportunity to add one to the win column. Against Steinert, PHS will be hoping to atone for the 62-32 pasting administered by the Spartans in January.

What Pressure? Princeton tied its game with Montgomery in the final 11 seconds as Bill Evers scored on a layup and Daryl Boone was fouled on the same play. Boone went to the line on a 1-and-1 situation needing to hit both to tie the score. Montgomery called time out to add to the pressure.

During the time out, Boone came over and told Ivan, "Mr. Ivan, I'm going to do my best." "I wouldn't want to be in his shoes — the tension was something," Ivan recalled, but he told Boone: "What pressure? There's not too much on you."

That broke Boone up, he said, and he went out and made both shots. Unfortunately, Boone's heroics were short-lived. Montgomery made two three-point plays in the overtime and sandwiched them around some fine foul shooting by Greg Loats to outscore the Little Tigers, 10-4.

Ironically PHS lost the game on the free throw line, where it missed 12 attempts. The chief culprit was Bailey who missed nine. Bailey, a sophomore, aside from those missed fouls, played his best game of the season, hitting 18 points and pulling down 16 rebounds.

"His shooting toward the end of the game kept us close; he played a whale of a game," said Ivan.

"Both teams were really hustling," Ivan continued. "But in a couple of spots we got careless. We got mixed up on our assignments and they had some uncontested shots."

Evers was second in scoring for the losers with nine, followed by Leon Robinson with seven. Boone and Tim Nuding had five each.

Gus Johnson and Earl Baldwin combined for 37 points for Montgomery as the visitors won their eighth of the season and second over PHS.

PHS WRESTLERS AT HOME

Three Matches Planned. In its next to last home appearance of the season, the Princeton High School wrestling team will entertain a strong Delaware Valley squad Saturday night, starting at 8.

Before the varsity match, however, there will be two mats in operation at the PHS gym to handle two preliminary matches, PHS coach Tom Murray reported that the freshmen and sophomores would wrestle as well as the jayvee team. This Wednesday evening at 8, the team was scheduled to play host to South Brunswick.

Last week, PHS entertained undefeated Cedar Ridge and for a few moments led, 3-0.

Because LouJohn Rossi had to attend a sports award banquet in Trenton the same night — an affair at which he was one of several athletes being honored — he wrestled first. LouJohn responded with a 6-0 decision in the heavyweight class.

In leading with its ace, PHS had nothing in the hole. The visitors did not lose a single match thereafter, although Larry Ritchey battled to a draw in the 148-pound class to make it a 36-5 final. Cedar Ridge is 8-0.

Actually, Ritchey would have won had he not been penalized a point for using an illegal hold as he and his opponent went off the mat. In other bouts, John Hodges, 167-pounder for PHS, lost on riding time, and Dave MacDonald and Andy Foltiny lost close decisions.

HILL NIPS PDS 3-2

New England Trip Next. The Princeton Day hockey team will return to New England this weekend, hoping this trip brings better results than the one in December.

Playing in the Milton-Nobl and Greenough tournament, the Panthers lost three games in two days to teams that had logged several days more playing time. This trip, the Blue and White will meet Kent on Friday and South Kent on Saturday.

TENNIS FUND PLANNERS: Planning for the annual fund raising drive of the Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton are (from left) Mrs. George A. Vaughn, Mrs. George Ferguson and Mrs. Edward McCabe Jr. — co-chairmen of the scholarship committee. Story this page.

Kent has usually proved to be the tougher of the two. Last year it blanked the Panthers 2-0, while PDS, in turn, shutout South Kent, 3-0. Prior to leaving for New England, PDS was scheduled to play the South Orange Canadians this Wednesday at PDS. The Canadians are replacing Beacon Hill, which could field a team. It's doubtful the game would give them much preparation last month PDS beat the Canadians, 8-0.

Last Wednesday, the Panthers and Hill School met for the second time, and it was Hill's turn to come out ahead in another closely fought contest. With goals in each of the first two periods, the visitors went into the third round with a 2-0 advantage.

Hill dominated most of the first half of the game but fine goal tending by Tom O'Connor kept the score close. PDS thought it had the margin narrowed to one near the end of the second period, but its goal was disallowed by a hotly disputed icing call.

In the third period, PDS did get a score for keeps on a shot by Peter McCandless, cutting Hill's lead to 2-1. With the Panthers' fighting the clock, Hill stole the puck and slipped in what proved to be the winning goal with 1:15 left.

PDS got its second score just 20 seconds later, and pulled its goalie with 56 seconds left, but all to no avail. The winners outshot PDS 31-20. The two teams will meet for a third time in the opening round of the PDS Invitational Tournament February 26.

FUND DRIVE PLANNED

By Tennis Committee. Mrs. George A. Vaughn, Mrs. George Ferguson and Mrs. Edward McCabe Jr., co-chairmen of the scholarship committee have met to launch plans for the annual fund raising drive of the Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton.

Since the foundation's formal inception in 1969, more than $3,253 has been raised to help finance tennis lessons and buy rackets and tennis balls for 154 youngsters.

By charging a fee for lessons, the Community Tennis Program is not dependent on either public or United Fund support — yet it reaches almost 1500 students a year in instructional classes and maintains a teaching staff of almost 100 instructors.

No child is ever refused participation because of inability to pay, even though the expenses of conducting the program have gently increased over the years.

Outside financial contributions are needed to supplement the program's budget and this year's goal is $3,000.

The primary use of funds will be for scholarship aid. Anyone who would like to apply for such support, or who knows of a youngster who should be included in the program but who may not be able to afford the lesson fee, should contact Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Ferguson or Mrs. McCabe.

The Scholarship Committee is working closely with the schools and churches in compiling a list of applicants, with stress on fourth grade girls and boys who would then, hopefully, stay with the progressive series of classes year after year until they reach the high school level of advanced instruction.

Contributions, which are tax deductible, may be made to the Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton and mailed to Mr. L. V. Silvester, Jr., Treasurer, Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton, Princeton Bank and Trust Company.

PDS FIVE SPLITS AGAIN

Bryn Athyn Next. Close ball games are becoming a way of life for the Princeton Day basketball team, and like most things in life the breaks, which tip the game one way or another, just about even out.

Two weeks ago PDS nipped Friends Central 50-48 in the final seconds, but last Wednesday, it fell to Pennington 55-54. It now has split four games by a total of nine points.

Bryn Athyn will be here Wednesday, February 17, for a return match with the Blue and White. The two engaged in a down-to-the-wire contest last month with Bryn Athyn coming out on top 45-43. Much improved since then, PDS should be able to turn this one around.

An indication of the Panthers' improvement was presented Friday when they rebounded well from the heartbreaking loss to Pennington and whipped Solebury 54-43. Solebury had routed PDS early last month 69-37, playing on its home court.

This time, the Blue and White jumped off to a 12-2 lead, and never let the visitors catch up. Solebury came within four points twice, but each time the Panthers put on a spurt to draw away. Mark Ellsworth had 20 points and Carl Jacobelli, 17, his highest total to date.

NEW PROGRAM DESIGNED

By Aeronautical Research. Aeronautical Research Associates, a Princeton-based corporation, has developed a computer program for the retrieval of stored information which allows the user to recall immediately, arrange, and print out data in any conceivable combination of ways using English commands.

It is equally at home with any type of data from library information in a humanities field to the most scientifically based numerical data, and operates within a small (desk size) computer rather than the larger computer complexes normally associated with programs of this flexibility.

Applications for such a program have been thus far in the fields of medicine, engineering, politics, chemistry, corporate management, and environmental control. Since the advent of high speed electronic computers, these machines have been utilized to store and later retrieve data as well as perform their fast computations.

However, usually the storage and retrieval is restricted to a specific type of data pulled in a set way, this capability having been "programmed" when the data base was initially instituted. With the A.R.A.P. system, (known as DRS for Data Retrieval System) neither the type of data nor, in particular, the retrieval requests need be established in advance.

The director of information retrieval at A.R.A.P. is Evan Gray, who was recently made vice-president, Data Retrieval Systems. He is currently coordinating the development of this effort. Responsible for programming this system is Peter Woodrow, head of the computational facilities at A.R.A.P. Assisting him, with particular responsibility for remote communications, is Barry Gilligan. Marketing the system as a complete package to those who operate a small computer and wish to use DRS in house is Jack Olcott.

NEW CENTER OPENED

By Mobil Oil. The first phase of the expansion of Mobil Oil Corporation's Technical Center near here has been completed. Some 250 engineering department staff members moved into new quarters last week on Titus Mill Road in Hopewell Township.

The new buildings, access roads, landscaping and parking areas were planned to complement the rural character of the area. The four connecting buildings face a small courtyard and are set 420 feet back from the road, presenting a low profile to the surrounding farm land. Eliot Noyes and Associates is the architect.

The remaining facilities, to be occupied by Mobil's Technical Service Department, are expected to be completed by August 1. Both sites are on the same property as the company's Central Research Division laboratory.

Borough to Have Seven Teen-Age Interns

An intern program, in which seven high-school-age Borough residents will work closely with various Borough departments, has been included in the 1971 Borough budget at a cost of $10,500.

Councilman Joseph Moore is sponsor of the program. Plans call for the seven young men and women to work part-time from April until the end of school, full time in the summer and then part-time again when school starts — ten hours a week part-time and 35 hours full time, according to Mr. Moore.

Two would be assigned to Council itself, working on projects and sitting in on meetings. Others could work for the Public Library or engineering departments, the Recreation Commission perhaps, or other municipal agencies.

"We want the work they do to be meaningful," Mayor Robert W. Cawley emphasized.

Council's new Personnel Committee will conduct interviews in late February or early March, Mr. Moore said. Interns will be chosen primarily from the junior class.

DRIVE CONTINUES

For Heart Fund. More than 300 solicitors, involved in the Heart Fund Drive here, hope to call on all residents of Princeton through a door-to-door appeal.

The drive is receiving strong support from University undergraduates. Several captains of Princeton teams are assisting including: Dennis Burns, last year's football captain and captain-elect Bob Wolfe, basketball captain Bill Sickler; track, Joe O'Hearn; baseball, Ray Huard, wrestling, Tom Potts, squash, Sandy McAdoe; lacrosse, Bill Petit; hockey, Tom MacMillan; fencing, Steve Greene; cross country, Denis O'Brien and Tom Yunick; and lightweight football, Dick Salmon.

Those who do not receive a personal visit from a Heart Fund representative are urged to call Irwin Weiss, 924 3663.

LODGE PLANS DINNER

To Honor Past Masters. Twenty-six past masters of Aaron Lodge No. 9, F&AM, will be honored Sunday at a dinner to be held at the Princeton Country Club on Route 1.

Thomas Fawcett, past master of King David Lodge No. 15 of Trenton will be the speaker. Edward T. Harmon is master and Lewis Higgins secretary of Aaron Lodge. Robert Twyman is dinner chairman.

$35,000 SOUGHT

In Campus Fund Drive. Princeton University students are seeking to raise $35,000 this week from among themselves and from University employees in the 1971 Campus Fund Drive, income from which will be used to support six local community serivce programs.

Under the leadership of Mark P. Wine '71, a 22-year-old senior from Des Moines, the appeal runs from Feb. 8-12. Although a goal of $35,000 also was set last year, final results fell some $9,000 short.

"We are trying to raise the highest amount in the more than 30-year history of the Campus Fund Drive," Mr. Wine noted, adding that "it is justified by the great needs involved." He pointed out that this is the first year that all the fund receiving groups will be from Princeton; it will also be the first year that all University employees also will be asked to contribute.

The six groups benefiting from the appeal include Princeton Summer Camp, the Student Volunteers Council, Princeton-to-Princeton Scholarship Fund, Princeton Youth Center, Princeton-in-Asia Scholarship Fund, and the Princeton Community House.

Annual scholarships for Princeton High School students, worth $400 each and renewable for four years, are financed by the Campus Fund Drive, making it possible for a number of secondary school students to attend colleges of their choice who otherwise would not be able to afford to do so.

Taking just five players (sickness had sidelined the others) into the Pennington gym last Wednesday against a 9-3 team, PDS at first appeared to be involved in a bad mismatch. However, with four minutes remaining, PDS held a 12-point lead, as the five players, Ellsworth, Rosenberg, Jacobelli, Tony Dalo and Dave Seckle, played superb ball. Then things began to fall apart.

Several bad breaks cost PDS points, fouls and eventually the ball game, but it took a 30-foot jumper at the buzzer by Pennington's Rick Young to do it. Ellsworth and Rosenberg both had 20 points.

PHS BURIED, 98-33

By Trenton. When you're playing one of the top ranked teams in the state and it shoots 39 for 72 and has complete control of the boards, you don't stand a chance. Right? Right.

The home team Tornadoes streaked to a 47-14 halftime lead. After three quarters it was 87-22 and the final 98-33 margain was as lopsided as the record for each team. THS is 16-1; PHS is 2-15.

Bill Evers and Leon Robin son paced the outgunned losers combining for 16 points. Lew Hill and Jim Womack, Trenton's 1-2 punch, combined for 52 points and 31 rebounds. Enough said.

HUN FIVE SPLITS

Solebury Here Next. Losing to a strong Germantown Friends team by three points and earlier topping Bordentown Military Institute by nine, Hun last week continued to show signs of turning the corner in basketball but it isn't all the way around yet. Its record is currently 4-9.

Hun will attempt to bring some balance to its record at the expense of Peddie and Solebury. It will travel to Hightstown Friday for a 3 p.m. contest with Peddie and will entertain Solebury here Tuesday at 3:15 in a Penn Jersey League contest.

Hun tossed a scare at Germantown Friday, staying with the leaders of the southern division of the league the entire game before losing, 55-52. Once again Dirk Whitehead, the 6-3, 235-pound football standout was the big man, both figuratively and in scoring for Hun, as he pumped in 21 points. Pete Jones added 12 and Lee Van Horn hit for eight on some fine outside shooting.

Earlier in the week, a basket by Hun's Jim Langel his only points of the game — with five seconds left, gave Hun a three-point lead over Bordentown Military Institute in Bordentown.

The Cadets raced down and scored unopposed in the final second but Hun walked off with a 60-59 win. Hun had taken a six point lead at the half only to fall behind by two at the end of the third period. However, in contrast to previous games this season, Hun came back, prompting Leete to remark: "We may have turned the corner."

PHS SKATERS TIE, LOSE

Wissahickon Here Friday. The powerful Wissahickon Hockey Club will travel to Princeton Friday for a game with Princeton High School at the Princeton Day School Rink, starting at 6:15.

Early in the year, Wissahickon administered the season's worst defeat on the sophomore and junior-dominated Little Tigers, blanking them 15-0. So PHS coach Eugene Doherty has no illusions about this one.

Sunday night, it was cold and rainy outside but at the PDS rink, PHS and Hun were waging a hot battle on the ice. Hun, which PHS had topped earlier this year, scored three goals in the first five minutes of play. ". . . and we spent the rest of the game catching up to them," Doherty commented. It was a 3-3 final.

Scoring for PHS were Jody Delano, John Weber and Mark Richards. Brooks Mohrmann played his usual fine game in front of the net, Doherty said.

Friday, in a repeat match with Cranford here, PHS nullified an early two goal lead by Cranford with scores from Steve Sanford and sophomore right wing, Pete Baruch.

"But then it was 3-2 and all of a sudden it was 6-2," said Doherty. That was the final score.

Despite the loss, the Blue and White could take some comfort in that the six goals were five fewer than Cranford scored against it in its opening game of the season. "We played a lot better this time," Doherty agreed, "and we had a lot of players out."

SKATERS EDGEO, 4-3

By Lawrenceville Jayvees. Twice Tuesday, the Larenceville jayvee hockey team came back to tie Princeton High School leads of 1-0 and 2-0 at its Lavino Rink.

Then the Larries added two more and it was the Little Tigers' turn to come back. The best they could muster, however, was one and the game ended 4-3. Larenceville. Ted Delano, John Weber and Steve Sanford scored for Princeton, while Nick Robinson excelled on defense.

COLLEGIATE TENNIS SET

For Indoor Next Weekend. The second annual indoor intercollegiate tennis tournament will be held February 19-21 at the Jadwin Gymnasium courts. All matches will be held at Level E and will be open to the public without charge.

Opening round matches will begin next Friday, February 9, at 9:30. The finals in both singles and doubles will be held Sunday.

There may be a rematch of last year's three-set final, according to John Conroy, tournament chairman. Both Bill Colson of Princeton, 1970 winner, and runner-up John Adams from Penn will be contenders for the title.

A former nationally-ranked junior player, Colson has won the Concord Hotel winter intercollegiate tournament and earlier captured the class A Eastern College intercollegiate championships held at West Point.

Adams is ranked number one in the Middle Atlantic States.

BOWLING NOTES

Kopliner Roll 264. Mike Kopliner of Tiger Garage in the Nassau League rolled a sizzling 264 last week — 102 pins over his average — for which he will receive an ABC Century Award patch from Dave Burrough, owner of the Princeton Recreation Lanes.

Mike's 264 was the second highest score posted at the Recreation Lanes this season. (Dick Fowler's 267 is still the game to beat.) He ran off six straight strikes before his string was broken and then added three more. Teammates Flavio Buono and Pros Aeschbacker rolled 230 and 224.

Pat Migliaccio of Kingston Wine and Liquor rolled 215-233, while Van Ranallo of Grover Lumber had 213-204. Dick Fowler rolled 215, Between 206 and 201 were Arky Arcamone, Tony Gaylord, Bill Parke, Al Toto and Jim Wheeler.

Bill Richardson of Lawrenceville in the Tri-County Firemen's League was high with a 235. George Luck and Bip Davison rolled 224 and 221 and Wally Brown of Princeton Junction had 219.

HES Co. took over the lead in the A League, thanks to some fine bowling by Joe Procaccini, Bob Cifelli and Tony Cifelli who rolled 233, 212 and 201 respectively. Stefanelli trails by two.

Ron Walten, Ed Harmon and Al Kren rolled 225, 222 and 221. Others: Mike Penelli, 218; Jim Case, 215; Al Hibbard, 212; Bill Penelli, 207; Bill Anatley, 204 and Ed Duncan, 200.

Diane Fowler of Princeton Taxi in the Business Women's League rolled a 222 (67 pins over her average) to which she added 174. Carol Lisi of Rocky Hill Inn rolled 174 and Kelly Masterton of Bucci Builders claimed 170-160. Kaye Carnevale, Jean Petrone and Evelyn Enedy all rolled 168s, while Patty Pirone had 167 and Lillian Burrough, 166.

NO. 2 IS NO. 1

In Women's Bowling League. Swift's Colonial Diner No. 2 is in first place in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, while its counterpart, No. 1, is number three in the standings. Sandwiched in between is Cranbury Bank. Two points separate each team.

The bank's Mary Anne Henderson went home happy when she carried a 126 average into the Hightstown Lanes and went home with a 217 game. Phyllis Boccanfuso of Will's Shell rolled 202.

year. This increase includes about $15,000 in new jobs, like "meter aides" and an additional Borough Hall secretary. Salary increases are expected to be about 6.5%, though individual raises may depart from that figure.

Negotiations with the police are holding up a final salary package, Mr. Mooney said.

The budget allots $10,000 to Child Guidance for the Special Project housed at 291 Witherspoon Street. This is the same amount Child Guidance received last year from the Borough.

Also on the spending side — $24,500 more for street projects for a $77,000 total. This means a complete re-doing of Olden Street; work on Alexander and a re-working of Library Place between Stockton and Mercer.

The Recreation Commission will receive the $13,000 more it asked for (total $85,000 from the Borough). Some of this will go toward a longer summer recreation program for Princeton's children.

Also in the budget is money to open the public library on Sundays, and to light the community swimming pool at night.

The budget sets aside $19,000 to be added to the $11,000 earmarked last year for that new fire-truck. Delivery is expected later this year. The University is contributing $10,000 and Princeton Theological Seminary $500, and other institutions may contribute also. Mr. Mooney said incidentally, the University's annual "in lieu-of-taxes" contribution is $15,700.

The emergency appropriation for an $18,000 feasibility study involving the incinerator, is also in the bookkeeping.

Pension payments, by the way, are down by $21,000. Investments by the state in employee pension plans have yielded such fine results that Governor William Cahill has said the municipalities can cut back on payments.

W. WINDSOR RATE UP 36 Municipal Rate Now 8 Cents.

A tax rate of $.77, 36 cents higher than a year ago, has been forecast for West Windsor Township following adoption this week of a $888,932 municipal budget.

Schools will receive $3.38 out of every $5.77 raised, with another $1.97 going to the county. The county will be responsible for 21 cents of the additional 36 cents needed for taxes in 1971.

The library tax is nine cents, the municipal rate is eight cents and five cents is imposed for senior citizens and veterans' exemptions. High rateables - notably four tracks used by the Penn Central - have for years kept the municipal rate at close to zero.

A 22.6 percent increase is reflected in the municipal budget. Additional amounts will be used to add seven men to the police department; to weed Grovers Mill Pond; for a survey to assign house numbers; and to underwrite the cost of a survey for the planning board on the advisability of adding planned unit developments in West Windsor. Public hearing on the budget has been set for March 8 in Township Hall, Dutch Neck.

Music In Princeton

MUSIC FROM MARLBORO

"Tuneful, Brilliant, Appealing:" Audiences have learned to expect music of unusual interest and performances of a very high order from the Marlboro artists, and the Music from Marlboro concert on Tuesday evening at 10 Mc. Cosh Hall was a musical treat in every sense of the word. The artists play not only expertly and with acknowledged style but also with such a spirit that they have a way of making music pieces of every genre of music they touch.

The program opened with the Haydn Fourteen Variations in E flat, opus 44 in which David Golub, pianist, Felix Galimir, violinist and James Kreger, cellist, were the artistic collaborators who alternately took their turns as soloists and accompanists. The inclusion of Beethoven completed the evening.

The same trio joined Mary Burgess, Mezzo soprano, in Haydn's Five Scottish Songs which had received their first New York performance on the previous evening at a concert in Tully Hall. The music of these songs is contained on microfilm in the Toscanini Archives at the New York Public Library.

The Scottish songs are little sound pieces of considerable charm, in which the lyrical Haydn melodies are touched by occasional Scottish flavor. Either the ear or the imagination detects Highlands' sounds, especially in the lament, and in the martial finale. Throughout the voice is deftly wrapped in the warm sounds of the accompanying instruments, the violin and the piano sometimes duplicate the voice, and sometimes weave light counterpoint around it.

Heard between the spun out melodies of Haydn and the sensuous sounds of the Dvorak "Quintet," the Webern "Six Bagatelles" for String Quartet opus 9, were impressive for their spare quality. The six movements are extremely short—each barely one minute long. The melodies are fragmented, the ranges wide, and the harmony non-tonal.

The effect is music of uncommon delight for its lean and terse quality. For this work, the violinist Miriam Fried, and the violist, John Graham, joined Mr. Galimir and Mr. Kreger, who appeared in every work of the evening.

Great brilliance and a remarkable unity of spirit characterized the Dvorak "Piano Quintet in A Major," opus 81, with which the Marlboro players concluded the concert. Together they moved between the extremes of soulfulness and frenzy, as the true Bohemian spirit of the work manifested itself. Tuneful, brilliant and appealing, the quintet was a happy conclusion to an evening of distinctive music making.

PIANO RECITAL SUNDAY AT Princeton Inn College. The Dominical Chamber Music Series, Princeton Inn College will present Lois Shaffer in a piano recital of Chopin, Schubert and Liszt pieces Sunday at 3 in the College Lounge.

Miss Shaffer, who studied with Rudolph Ganz and at the Juilliard School of Music, was the recipient of a Stokes Award. She has appeared in numerous concerts in the mid west as well as in the Trenton, Philadelphia, and Princeton areas and has performed chamber music concerts with members of the Marlboro Music Festival. Miss Shaffer is a member of the Princeton Music Club.

OPERETTA TO BE SUNG By Musical Amateurs. The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will hold its fifth meeting of the season on Sunday at 5 p.m. at the Unitarian Church.

Because of the outstanding success of last year's informal reading of a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, the program for this meeting will once again depart from the usual selection of a major choral work, and offer instead an other operetta "The Gondoliers."

Professor J. Merrill Knapp of the Princeton University Music Department will again conduct the group of around 100 participants in chorus, orchestra and large cast of principals, which will include Lee Bristol, William Lockwood, Jr., Albert Janssen, Philip Rader, Norman Rubin, George Gallup, Jr., Joan Kersenbrock, Jean Thomas, June Tipton, Mary Jane Witte, Sondra VanSant, and Carol Peterson.

In addition to members of the Society, interested persons are invited to participate or attend, and should contact Mrs. M. B. Gottheb at 921-7214. There is a small charge for non members to cover music and refreshments.

WHO COULD ASK FOR ANYTHING MORE?

Then absolute perfection in a William Thompson designed Colonial on one of the most beautiful pieces of ground in Princeton Township? Here is a unique opportunity to have a superb house in better than new condition for less than its reproduction cost. From its exciting setting high on a wooded bluff overlooking Stony Brook to its sumptuous interiors, it is the best house of its kind that we've seen in years. The stone floored entrance hall is flanked by elegant formal living (with fireplace) and dining rooms, lushly carpeted in a soft green with volances and draperies to match. There's a cozy study with high beamed ceiling and an open hearth, a panaled family room for the children, a super deluxe, fully equipped kitchen with spacious breakfast area and bar, maid's room (now presently equipped with built in desks as a study for two boys), full bath, powder room and laundry, all on the ground floor. Upstairs, there's a master suite of bedroom, dressing room and bath, plus 5 other bedrooms and 2 more baths. Loads of storage space in basement, attic and garage. Central air-conditioning. And to top it all off, a 30' screened porch opening off living and family rooms and overlooking the brook. Offered here for the first time at $155,000
